The Lakeside Classics “Blues”

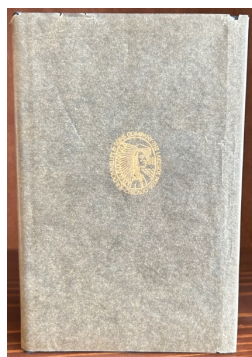

This month our Book List features some more individual volumes of R. R. Donnelley’s The Lakeside Classics. Specifically, we want to feature volumes included in the “Blue” series of Lakesides, covering the years 1953-1977. The publishers of The Lakeside Classics sought to create fine and desirable volumes to present to employees and customers as annual Christmas gifts. They were never sold in stores. The project continued from 1903 through 2018. The books are bound in various colors of cloth with each color running in a series of 25 years. While books from the initial “Green” series are the most sought-after by collectors, the reds can also be hard to find, especially before the heavier print runs of the blue and brown series.

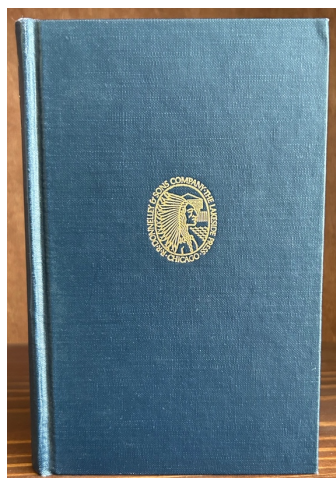

In the introduction to the series printed in THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF BENJAMIN FRANKLIN (1903), the publishers give their philosophy behind their effort to give out fine, handsomely printed, but useful books as Christmas gifts. “...this volume stands for the machine-made book. Its paper, its type-setting, its presswork, and its binding all are the product of the very latest labor-saving machines. It aims to be readable rather than eccentric, plain rather than decorative, tasteful rather than unique, useful rather than useless; withal, to hold the essence of the old masters of book-making, and not to copy the mechanical shortcomings which they themselves strove so hard to overcome.”

Daniel Weinberg describes the scope and intent of The Lakeside Classics in this video and blog post at our website. <https://alincolnbookshop.com/lakeside-classics/>

All books listed here are one-of-a-kind and subject to prior sale. Terms of sale, including shipping charges, are detailed at the end of this list or on our website – www.ALincolnBookShop.com - listed under the category called “Policies.” Again, due to the large stock of out-of-print books we have, these books are not sold through our online sales system. If you wish to inquire about or order a title, please call us during business hours at (312) 944-3085, or contact us through our website. Our staff will be happy to discuss or more fully describe any book you see here.
