Consolidated Monthly List

(February – August 2021)

Our stock of antiquarian books is larger than we can feature on our web site, and given the one-of-a-kind nature of these books, we cannot maintain any comprehensive list of what we have to offer. That is one reason why we encourage you to visit the Book Shop. However, we will periodically publish book lists featuring selected titles that we feel are of value to collectors of Lincolniana, Civil War, Presidential, and Americana books.

Shipping charges are generally $9 for the first book $1.50 each additional. This is for Media Mail only, with no insurance. We offer other services and insurance. Please inquire if you would like expediated shipping or insurance. Illinois residents pay the prevailing local income tax, currently 10.25%. Click here to learn about our other polices.

Again, due to the large stock of out-of-print books we have, these books are not sold through our online sales system. If you wish to inquire about or order a title, please call us during business hours at (312) 944-3085, or contact us through our website.

We welcome your questions and comments.

Adams, Michael C. OUR MASTERS THE REBELS: A SPECULATION ON UNION MILITARY FAILURE IN THE EAST, 1861-1865. Cambridge, MA: 1978.1st ed., 256p. A groundbreaking study which credits rebel successes in the east not to tangible military superiority, but rather to perceptions of their military prowess. Adams sees the roots of Lost Cause mythology in the acceptance by Northerners of assumptions about southern military superiority. Notions that the Union beat down the Confederacy by numbers and not by skill came in part from the north and not only the south. Very good; dust jacket. Signed. $65.00

Alberts, Don E. BRANDY STATION TO MANILA BAY. Austin: 1980.1st ed., 352p., illustrated, maps. Hard to find biography of Sheridan's great cavalry officer, Wesley Merritt, whose career spanned the Civil through Spanish-American Wars. One of Sheridan's "boy generals," Merritt did much to create the victorious Cavalry Corps of the Army of the Potomac. Merritt's relative obscurity is an oversight of a great American soldier which Alberts' biography helps to correct. Very good; dust jacket. $50.00

Alford, Terry. FORTUNE'S FOOL: THE LIFE OF JOHN WILKES BOOTH. Oxford U. Press, 2015. 454p.; d.j. A comprehensive, definitive portrait of Booth by a scholar who has studied Booth his entire life. Based on original research into government archives, historical archives, and family records. As new. $39.95

Anastaplo, George. ABRAHAM LINCOLN: A CONSTITUTIONAL BIOGRAPHY. Lanham: 1999. 1st ed., 400p. With eloquent insights, Anastaplo describes the development and legacy of Lincoln's legal and constitutional thought and demonstrates Lincoln's continuing influence on modern American society, law, and politics. Eloquent and perceptive essays are combined with philosophical insight into Lincoln's writings and speeches. As new; d.j.; signed bookplate. $35.00

Armstrong, Marion V., Jr. UNFURL THOSE COLORS! McCLELLAN, SUMNER, AND THE SECOND ARMY CORPS IN THE ANTIETAM CAMPAIGN. Tuscaloosa: (2008).1st ed., 384p., illustrated, maps. This examination of the operational fabric of leadership and command in the Army of the Potomac, during one of the most crucial campaigns of the Civil War, carefully documents the command decisions of army commander George B. McClellan, and follows their execution through the corps level of command and down to the ordinary soldier in the Second Corps. It reappraises the leadership and decisions of Edwin V. Sumner during the Battle of Antietam and details, as no previous account has, the fighting of his Second Corps at Antietam, including Sedgwick's division in the West Woods and French's and Richardson's divisions at Bloody Lane. "This is a terrific book." --- John Michael Priest. Near fine; dust jacket. $35.00

Arnold, Samuel Bland. DEFENCE AND PRISON EXPERIENCES OF A LINCOLN CONSPIRATOR: STATEMENTS AND AUTOBIOGRAPHICAL NOTES. Hattiesburg, Miss.: 1943. Ltd. ed. of 199 copies. 133p. Arnold had seen the plot from the inside. An original member of Booth's conspiracy, Arnold had withdrawn from the plot only three weeks before the President's assassination. Captured, tried, and sentenced to life at hard labor at the infamous Dry Tortugas, he survived to tell his remarkable story in a vivid and compelling style. His intimate glances at Booth's inner circle and his harrowing tales of prison life make this an essential book on the subject. Excellent; very lt. wear only. $225.00.

Avery, P. O. HISTORY OF THE FOURTH ILLINOIS CAVALRY REGIMENT. Humbolt, NE: 1903.1st ed., 194p., illustrated (portraits), (Dornbusch-22). Recruited around Ottawa, Illinois, and commanded by Abraham Lincoln's friends, Judge T. Lyle Dickey & William McCullough, the 4th Illinois Cavalry fought in the Mississippi Valley throughout the war, earning their spurs in battles like Shiloh, Corinth, Vicksburg, and the campaigns against Forrest. A small but valuable work, including interesting first-person accounts. William McCullough, killed at Coffeyville, Mississippi, in December of 1862, is the subject of Lincoln's immortal condolence letter to Fanny McCullough. Hinges cracked but not separated; boards water-stained and mottled; else very good. Quite scarce! $375.00

Bacarella, Michael. LINCOLN'S FOREIGN LEGION: THE 39th NEW YORK INFANTRY, THE GARIBALDI GUARD. (Shippensburg: 1996).1st ed., 330p., illustrations. During the Italian Wars of Unification in the mid-19th century, thousands of soldiers - Italian, American, French, British, German, Hungarian, Polish, and others - received a unique schooling from the intrepid General Giuseppe Garibaldi. Those men carried lessons with them during the American Civil War onto the battlefields of Bull Run, Gettysburg, the Wilderness, through to Appomattox. The Garibaldi Guard, named after the illustrious general, was a unique meld of those foreign nationals who participated in the European revolutions and the struggle to save the Union. Includes the muster roll of this fascinating regiment, which serves as a reminder of the multicultural make-up of the forces that fought in the Civil War. Very good; in dust jacket & signed on bookplate. $45.00

Baker, La Fayette C. HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES SECRET SERVICE. Philadelphia: 1867.1st ed., 704p.; frontispiece. This was a popular memoir of the commander of the National Police, and also Edwin Stanton's right-hand-thug. Sometimes Baker's actions as a secret service agent were helpful, but many times were despotic. Baker was a ubiquitous presence in Washington during the war. The book contains material on counter-espionage activities as well as much on the pursuit and killing of Booth. Lightly sunned; lightly rubbed and bumped; light foxing and dampstaining, especially on end pages; else very good. $275.00

Ballard, Colin R. THE MILITARY GENIUS OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN. London: 1926. 1st ed., 246p., ft.(map), color maps. [M2832, Howes B-73, Eicher #965] A fine study, written for the British General Staff, intended as a rebuttal to the notion that Lincoln was a bumbling armchair general who needlessly interfered with his field commanders. Ballard's view, that Lincoln was an excellent though unconventional strategist and the first modern commander in chief, has become widely accepted. Excellent. $175.00

Baringer, William E. LINCOLN'S RISE TO POWER. Boston: 1937. 1st.; 373p.; illus. An excellent, classic account of Lincoln's strategy in turning himself from a defeated senatorial candidate into the 1860 presidential candidate. Professor Baringer had been the chief compiler of LINCOLN DAY BY DAY volumes 1 & 2 and his LINCOLN IN VANDALIA remains the essential history of the story. V.g.; lt. chips to d.j.; lt. toning inside bds. $75.00

Barker, Harold R. HISTORY OF THE RHODE ISLAND COMBAT UNITS IN THE CIVIL WAR (1861- 1865). N.P.: (1964).1st ed., 338p., illustrated, maps. Stories of Rhode Island units, interwoven in a war narrative. Light foxing; badly chipped & taped dust jacket with significant loss; otherwise very good; signed. $45.00

Basler, Roy, Edited with Critical and Analytical Notes. ABRAHAM LINCOLN: HIS SPEECHES AND WRITINGS. Cleveland & New York: The World Publishing Company, 1946. Limited Edition #66 of 650 numbered copies, Signed by Basler. A fine one-volume condensation by the editor of THE COLLECTED WORKS OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN (10vols). In a handsome cloth binding, it includes a tipped-in facsimile of Lincoln's famous letter of 26 January 1863 to Gen. Joseph Hooker, telling him that, hearing Hooker thinks the Army and Government needs a dictator, he (Lincoln) needs victories and that he would "risk the dictatorship." Excellent. $225.00

Beatty, John. MEMOIRS OF A VOLUNTEER, 1861 – 1863. New York: (1946).1st ed., 317p., illustrated. Reprint of General Beatty's 1879 memoir, "The Citizen-Soldier", edited by Harvey S. Ford with an introduction by Lloyd Lewis. Lewis writes "Like Grant's Memoirs, [Beatty] views war and warriors with a candor and common sense and humor that are undated." A witty and sometime caustic reminiscence of an Ohio officer in the war with the Army of the Cumberland including Perryville, Stones River and Chickamauga. Very good; dust jacket lightly sunned and chipped. $35.00

Bilby, Joseph G. SMALL ARMS AT GETTYSBURG: INFANTRY AND CAVALRY WEAPONS IN AMERICA'S GREATEST BATTLE. Yardley, PA: (2007).1st ed., 293p., frontispiece, illustrations, maps. The three-day battle of Gettysburg has probably been the subject of more books and articles than any other comparable event. There have been campaign histories, detailed studies of each army or branch of service, accounts of the fighting on one day or area of the battlefield, and the combat sagas of a particular brigade, regiment, or individual. Surprisingly, until this work, no one has analyzed the firearms and other individual soldier's weapons used at Gettysburg in any great detail. The battle was a watershed, with military weapons technologies representing the past, present, and future --- sabers, smoothbores, rifles, and breechloaders --- in action alongside each other, providing a unique opportunity to compare performance and use, as well as determining how particular weapons and their deployment affected the outcome and course of the battle. Bilby covers all of the individual soldier's weapons --- muskets, rifle-muskets, carbines, repeaters, sharpshooter arms, revolvers, and swords --- providing a detailed examination of their history and development, technology, capabilities, and use on the field at Gettysburg. This is the story of the weapons and men who carried them into battle during those three days in July of 1863. $29.95

Black, Robert C., III. THE RAILROADS OF THE CONFEDERACY. Chapel Hill: The University of North Carolina Press, 1952.1st ed., 360p., illustrations, maps, folding map. This is an indispensable title on the overtaxed Confederate railroad system. It is a complex and dramatic story, with the railroads themselves playing the part of the tragic hero; at first vigorous though immature; then overloaded, driven unmercifully, smashed, repaired, starved of iron, and struggling on toward the inevitable destruction wrought by total war. Robert Black also designed the first comprehensive folding map of all the railroads of the south. Important for those students of history who appreciate the role of infrastructure in the outcome of the war. Overall very good condition with sunned dust jacket (common for this book) and chipped dust jacket at top and bottom of the spine; light loss from chipping. $65.00

Blood, Caleb. MAKING THE CIRCLE OF THE CONFEDERACY. Gettysburg: (2001).1st ed. thus, 117p., illustrated. This reprint of a rare memoir is itself exceedingly scarce. Includes modern reproduction of many photos not in the previous edition. The 33rd Massachusetts served with the XI Corps and fought at Chancellorsville and Gettysburg. Fine. $125.00

Boritt, Gabor, ed. LINCOLN, THE WAR PRESIDENT. New York: 1992. 1st ed., 272p., illus. A collection of seven essays that offer a fresh look at how Lincoln confronted the central issues of the Civil War. Among the contributors: Kenneth Stampp, Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and James McPherson. A provocative look at how Lincoln ran a country at war with itself. A handsome clipped signature of Gabor Boritt affixed to the title page; as new; d.j. $35.00

Brainard, Mary Genevieve Green. CAMPAIGNS OF THE ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-SIXTH REGIMENT NEW YORK STATE VOLUNTEERS / ALSO KNOWN AS HELLECK'S INFANTRY, THE FIFTH ONEIDA, AND GARRARD'S TIGERS. NY: 1915.1st ed., 542p., frontispiece, illustrated, folding maps (Dornbusch-548). Mary Brainard compiled an impressive record of this famous unit of New York Zouaves whose battle honors include The Wilderness, Spotsylvania, and Petersburg. Rear hinge starting; light rub; owner's stamp and markings on end pages; light chipping of extremities; else very good. $295.00

Brewer, Abraham T. HISTORY SIXTY-FIRST REGIMENT PENNSYLVANIA VOLUNTEERS, 1861-1865, UNDER AUTHORITY THE REGIMENTAL

ASSOCIATION... Pittsburgh: 1911.1st ed., 234p., illustrated, quarto, (Dornbusch-190). History of a regiment of the VI Corps, from Pittsburgh. Contains roster. Usual wear, but very bright; strong. $200.00

Burt, John. LINCOLN'S TRAGIC PRAGMATISM: LINCOLN, DOUGLAS, AND MORAL CONFLICT. Cambridge: 2013. 1st ed., 814p. Burt contends that the very legitimacy of democratic governance was on the line in the Debates. Can a liberal political system be used to mediate moral disputes? And if it cannot, is violence inevitable? As they campaigned, both struggled with how to behave when an ethical conflict as profound as the one over slavery strained the commitment upon which democracy depends—namely, to rule by both consent and principle. That some disputes seemed to lie beyond the horizon of deal-making and persuasion and could be settled only by violence revealed democracy's limitations. Burt argues that the unresolvable ironies at the center of liberal politics led Lincoln to discover liberalism's tragic dimension—and ultimately led to war. As new. $39.95

Byrne, Frank L. & Weaver, Andrew T. HASKELL OF GETTYSBURG: HIS LIFE AND CIVIL WAR PAPERS. Madison, WI: 1970. Later printing, 258p., illustrations, maps. A collection of Frank Haskell's writings, including his unforgettable Gettysburg letter, and the first detailed biographical sketch of his life. A nice reading copy of a most important primary source on the Pickett-Pettigrew-Trimble charge. Very good; dust jacket. $25.00

Cain, Marvin R. LINCOLN'S ATTORNEY GENERAL: EDWARD BATES OF MISSOURI. Columbia: (1965). 1st ed., 361p., ft. Edward Bates was a trusted Lincoln advisor. Cain documents the evolution of Bates' point of view from Jeffersonian to Jackson Democrat to Whig to an anti-slavery voice in a progressive distraction. V.g.; d.j. $55.00

Carwardine, Richard J. LINCOLN: A LIFE OF PURPOSE AND POWER. NY: Knopf Borzoi Book, (2006). 1st American; 394p.; d.j. Lincoln Prize winner! This political biography focuses on the sources of his authority and achievement. It reveals his political talents and serious moral purpose but shows, too, how in pursuing office he depended on public opinion and the machinery of party. As war-leader, he saw the limits as well as the possibilities of power, and looked beyond the government to other engines of support, including the churches, the humanitarian agencies, and the volunteers of the Union army. A true "essential" Lincoln title. Excellent; lt. bumps. $90.00

Carwardine, Richard J. LINCOLN. (London: 2003). 1st ed., 352p. Oxford don Carwardine examines Lincoln both as a rising politician and as president, and focuses on the sources of his authority and achievement. It reveals his political talents and serious moral purpose but shows, too, how in pursuing office he depended on public opinion and the machinery of party. As war-leader, he saw the limits as well as the possibilities of power, and looked beyond the government to other engines of support, including the churches, the humanitarian agencies, and the volunteers of the Union army. Significant insight from "across the pond," as compelling and fresh as was Lord Charnwood in 1918. Winner of the Lincoln Prize and a must read! $75.00

Catton, Bruce. GETTYSBURG: THE FINAL FURY. NY: Doubleday & Co., 1974. 3rd Printing, 114p., illustrations, maps, maps on end pages, slipcase. If there have been more books written about Gettysburg than any other battle, if historians have distilled the fighting down to fifteen-minute segments, then it is most important to have a concise, literate overview of the battle. No Twentieth Century writer got to the essential kernel of the Civil War better than Bruce Catton. With brevity and pathos he tells of the crucial moments and characters of each side. Fine maps and illustrations. Very good-plus condition with very good slipcase, just starting to split at top. $40.00

Chambers, Lenoir. STONEWALL JACKSON. New York: William Morrow, 1959.1st ed., 2 volumes, maps. A comprehensive biography of Thomas J. Jackson. Volume I: The Legend and the Man to Valley V. Volume II: Seven Days to Last March. Well-written and carefully researched. Books in near fine condition; lightly worn slipcase. $75.00

Clark, Charles M, M.D., THE HISTORY OF THE THIRTY-NINTH REGIMENT: ILLINOIS VOLUNTEER VETERAN ARMY. (Yates Phalanx) IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION, 1861-1865. Chicago: 1889.1st ed., 554p., quarto, sketches, photos, (Dornbusch-185). Straightforward account of the regimental experience as recalled by key members of this distinctive Chicago unit. To the point, not overly romanticized though published on the eve of the 25th disbandment of the organization. Company-by-company treatment of the recruitment, organization, rosters and biographies of individual members. Details the role of the regiment in the attempt at taking Fort Wagner, involving over three hundred losses to the 39th . Revealing information on Petersburg. A very scarce history of a XXIV Corps regiment. Chipped extremities, lightly rubbed; dampstain on frontispiece; else very good. $465.00

Coco, Gregory A. A STRANGE AND BLIGHTED LAND. GETTYSBURG; THE AFTERMATH OF A BATTLE. Gettysburg: 1995.1st ed., 433p., illustrations, maps. Even the most brilliant writer has yet to capture the intensity, splendor, and horror of a battle in its most vivid form. It must be seen and experienced to be understood. Consequently, skilled word-painters have always confronted similar obstacles when describing fields of conflict after the passionate strife of battle has ceased. What of the splendor, the pomp, and the circumstance of battle when only the horrible remains in its ghastliest and most terrible forms? At Gettysburg in July 1863, long after the fighting had stopped and the troops had moved on, all that remained was death, destruction, and despair. There was much work to be done, and people came from miles around to witness the carnage and provide a helping hand. A Strange and Blighted Land traces the cleanup and restoration of the battlefield from the initial stages of removing the wounded and burying the dead, to the development of hospitals, gathering of prisoners, and memorializing the fields. The "tour" that followed is one of enthralling fascination that includes numerous first-hand accounts written by people who were present at the scenes and took the time to pen their thoughts. The descriptions illustrated the graphic realities of warfare with unparalleled veracity. The author provides extensive research into the clean-up and restoration efforts around Gettysburg. As new; dust jacket. $45.00

Coddington, Edwin B. THE GETTYSBURG CAMPAIGN: A STUDY IN COMMAND. NY: Scribner's (Morningside, 1979).1st ed. thus, 866p., octavo, illustrations, maps. If you read one book your whole life on Gettysburg, this is the one. The work was published posthumously in 1968 and this reprint produced in 1979. Coddington followed in the steps of Douglas Southall Freeman, even borrowing a subtitle from Lee's Lieutenants, by framing the story of the battle around the crucial decisions of the commanders. Significantly, George Gordon Meade was redeemed from an unearned reputation for passivity, and shown to be the author of his own victory. As new; dust jacket. $75.00

Cox, LaWanda. LINCOLN AND BLACK FREEDOM: A STUDY IN PRESIDENTIAL LEADERSHIP. U. of So. Carolina Pr., 1981. 1 .; 254p.; d.j. Cox's work remains a basic work on Lincoln's personal and political views on race. She concludes that Lincoln and Republican radicals "shared an identity of purpose, if not of rhetoric and tactic, in seeking basic rights, citizenship, and political participation for former slaves." Very good. $45.00

Cozzens, Peter. THIS TERRIBLE SOUND: THE BATTLE OF CHICKAMAUGA. Urbana: University of Illinois Press, (1992).1st ed., 675p., illustrations, maps. This is the indispensable one- volume work on Chickamauga. A clearly written treatment of a complicated battle, made better by numerous maps and original illustrations by the eminent military artist Keith Rocco. Very good. Inscribed and signed by the author. $50.00

Craughwell, Thomas, J. STEALING LINCOLN'S BODY. Cambridge, MA: (2007). 1st ed., 250p., illus. The night of the presidential election of 1876, a gang of counterfeiters attempted to steal the entombed and embalmed body of Abraham Lincoln, intending to hold it for ransom. A riveting look into late 19th Century America, and a rousing tale underscoring that truth really is sometimes stranger than fiction. "Summoning the raw spirit of crime novels and horror stories, as well as the forensic detail of a coroner's inquest, Craughwell has turned the eerie final chapter of the Lincoln story into a guilty pleasure." --- Harold Holzer. Signed; as new; d.j. $45.00

Creasey, George W., THE CITY OF NEWBURYPORT IN THE CIVIL WAR. Boston: 1903.1st ed., 539p. octavo. Nicely embossed navy-blue cover. An exploration of the role of Newburyport, Massachusetts in supporting the war, particularly by the city government. Full listing of the individual records of "men who served to the credit of Newburyport" in the army and navy. A impressively lengthy listing. The final thirteen pages details the involvement with the just-completed "war with Spain, 1898-9. Uncommon. Near fine. $225.00

Daniel, John Warwick. SPEECHES AND ORATIONS OF JOHN WARWICK DANIEL, COMPILED BY HIS SON EDWARD M. DANIEL. Lynchburg: 1911.1st ed., 787p., frontispiece. This collection is an important work of Confederate history from a leading voice of the turn of the Twentieth Century. Contains speeches on the "Character of Stonewall Jackson", "Gettysburg", "Lee" and "Jubal A. Early". Daniel was chief of Early's staff and later a senator from Virginia. The Gettysburg oration is an especially important resource on Confederate operations north of town (July 1) and in the attack on Cemetery Hill (July 2). Very good condition, in scarce dust jacket! $175.00

Davis, William C. LONE STAR RISING: THE REVOLUTIONARY BIRTH OF THE TEXAS REPUBLIC. New York: (2004).1st ed., 354p., illustrations, map. Davis, a prolific historian and author of Three Roads to the Alamo, focuses on the larger-than-life characters who share center stage with an astonishing cast of largely unknown entrepreneurs, hucksters and adventurers who joined together to create the Republic of Texas. As three separate revolutionary traditions clashed - the grandchildren of the Founding Fathers, the children of Latin American revolutionaries and the fiercely independent native Tejanos - battles became inevitable, and the resultant independent Texas would forever change American history. Davis' American sources are buoyed by new Mexican research with evidence that clearly shows how Spain, Mexico, the Tejanos and the Anglo-Americans plotted and maneuvered. "If one could read but a single book concerning the conflict, this would be it." - Stephen L. Hardin. Signed; as new; in dust jacket with sticker. $35.00

Davis, William C. THE ORPHAN BRIGADE: THE KENTUCKY CONFEDERATES WHO COULDN'T GO HOME. Mechanicsburg, PA: Stackpole, 1993. 2nd hardcover edition, 318p., illustrations, maps. "Jack" Davis provides the best account of these exiled border state Confederates. Organized in 1861 by John C. Breckenridge, the Confederate Kentucky Brigade fought with distinction at Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Baton Rouge, Stones River, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge and the Atlanta campaign. There was hardly a battle in the chronicle of the western Confederate army that does not include the heroic fighting of these gallant men. Among the commanders of the brigade were Robert Trabue, Roger Hanson and Abraham Lincoln's brother-in-law, Ben Hardin Helm. Very good with clipped dust jacket. Signed. $40.00

Dell, Christopher. LINCOLN AND THE WAR DEMOCRATS: THE GRAND EROSION OF CONSERVATIVE TRADITION. Rutherford, NJ: (1975). 1st ed., 455p.; d.j. A provocative and important analysis of the war time Democratic party and its crucial role in the war. Dell sees the pro-Union element of the Democratic Party as Lincoln's instrument for breaking down the old Democracy and building a coalition, not only for Union, but ultimately for very progressive principles. War Democrats such as Stanton, Holt, Butler, and Speed were influenced by Lincoln and played important roles in executing his ideas. V.g. $75.00

Desjardin, Thomas A. STAND FIRM YE BOYS FROM MAINE: THE 20th MAINE AND THE GETTYSBURG CAMPAIGN. Gettysburg: Thomas Publications, (1995). 2nd printing, 239p., illustrations, maps. The battle for the southern slope of Little Round Top at Gettysburg on July 2, 1863 is the most studied small unit military action in American history. Tom Desjardin uses more than seventy first-hand accounts written by more than two dozen veterans to tell the story of that fight in critical detail. The story is told from both sides, also revealing the actions and feelings of the men from Alabama who tried, in vain, to seize the important position. "...a classic account of (the 20th Maine's) defense of the Round Tops": - Harry Pfanz. Signed; as new; dust jacket. $28.00

DeWitt, David M. THE JUDICIAL MURDER OF MARY E. SURRETT. Baltimore: 1895. 1st ed., 259p. [M1165; Howes D-606] A "ground-breaking," classic work on the role of Surratt in the assassination of Lincoln. Scarce. Very good; lt. rub; hinges starting. $425.00

Donald, David Herbert. "WE ARE LINCOLN MEN". New York: (2003). 1st ed., 288p., illus. Friendships never came easily for a man as private and as mysterious as Abraham Lincoln. This original book by a 2-time winner of the Pulitzer Prize offers an enlightened way of looking at Lincoln by observing how he dealt with his friends and close associates. Speed, Browning, Seward, Nicolay, Hay, Herndon, and others are covered. Donald concludes Lincoln's lack of an intimate, peer relationship had a direct effect on his Presidency. V.g.; owner's name. $35.00

Dornblaser, Thomas Franklin SABRE STROKES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA DRAGOONS, IN THE WAR OF 1861-1865. INTERSPERSED WITH PERSONAL REMINISCENCES. Philadelphia: 1884.1st ed., 264p.; illustrated boards, (Dornbusch-61). Nevins (Vol. I-82) states “this narrative of cavalry operations in the Deep South is a factual, reliable account by an obviously fair-minded soldier.” Dornblaser recounts the experiences of the 7th Pennsylvania Cavalry, an eastern unit in the western campaigns. The regiment was regularly opposed to Morgan and Wheeler. Useful accounts of Stones River, Chickamauga, the Atlanta Campaign, Wilson’s Raid, and the capture of Jefferson Davis are part of this history. Hinges shaken; light bump; light shipping of extremities; light soiling in text; else very good. $250.00

Dornblaser, Thomas Franklin. MY LIFE-STORY FOR YOUNG AND OLD. N.P.: 1930.1st ed., 222p., frontispiece, illustrated (Dornbusch-60). Rev. Dornblaser preached the Gospel for over fifty-nine years, and he here relates his life story in that mission. His Civil War experiences are expounded upon in a different light than in his memoir of service in the 7th Pennsylvania Cavalry (see below). He culls his reminiscences to pull out stories of moral and spiritual courage on the battlefield and in camp. Written forty-five years after “Sabre Strokes,” this memoir demonstrates maturity in remembrance of the war that is not often seen in Civil War reminiscences. Usual shelf-wear and toning; else very good. [An important companion piece to Egerton, below]. $70.00

Dowdey, Clifford. LEE. Boston: 1965.1st ed., 781p., illustrations, maps, map on end pages. An excellent biography in one volume. A well-written alternative to Douglas Southall Freeman. There should be no doubt that the author revered his subject, and intended the biography to be hagiography. Dowdey nevertheless paints a dramatic picture of Lee’s life and campaigns. At his death the Richmond New Leader eulogized Clifford Dowdey as “The Last Confederate.” Wonderful storytelling. A perfect example of the writing of the 20th Century Southern gentleman-historian. Very good; dust jacket lightly chipped and soiled with a mark across the spine. $35.00

Downey, Fairfax. THE GUNS AT GETTYSBURG. New York: (1958).1st ed., 290p., illustrations, maps, maps on end pages. The Gettysburg battle as told from an artilleryist’s perspective. A fine study with valuable and fulsome appendices, including a census of guns on the Gettysburg battlefield. The mechanical aspects of artillery are well-covered along with stories of the operations. Very good with some light margin notes and owner’s bookplate; dust jacket clipped, fair. $35.00

Egerton, Douglas R. THUNDER AT THE GATES: THE BLACK CIVIL WAR REGIMENTS THAT REDEEMED AMERICA. New York: Basic Books, 2016.1st ed., 429p., frontispiece, illustrations. Douglas Egerton’s wonderful unit history follows the experiences of the three African-American regiments of Massachusetts Volunteers – the 54th , the 55th , and the 5th Massachusetts Cavalry. In so doing he demonstrates that these regiments were unique, even in comparison to the hundreds of thousands of black men who served in the ranks of the United States Colored Troops. As new; dust jackets; signed on book plate. $32.00

Favill, Josiah M. THE DIARY OF A YOUNG OFFICER SERVING WITH THE ARMIES OF THE UNITED STATES DURING THE WAR OF THE REBELLION... Chicago: R. R. Donnelley & Sons, 1909.1st ed., 298p., frontispiece, illustrations, top edge gilt, (Dornbusch-NY- 342). Excellent diaries by a young officer whose 57th New York participated in all major campaigns from the Seven Days to its muster out in May 1864. Favill was aide-de-camp to General Samuel Zook at Gettysburg, and relates in detail the battle for the wheatfield on July 2 and the death of his general. This is one of the essential primary sources on the wheatfield. Light wear with repairs made with opaque tape on frontispiece; some stains; light foxing; light chipping of extremities; weak hinge beginning to separate at first gathering; else very good. $175.00

Fehrenbacher, Don D. LINCOLN IN TEXT AND CONTEXT: COLLECTED ESSAYS. Stanford: Stanford U. Press, 1987. 1 .; 364p.; d.j. Winner of the Pulitzer Prize for his work on Dred Scott, there is no more eminent scholar than Fehrenbacher in Lincoln literature. This brilliant book contains essays on a wide range of Lincoln subjects, fresh then and relevant today. From his Illinois years through the war years and into interpretation of his image and his words and delving into the anti-Lincoln tradition as well. An essential read! V.g. $75.00

Fenster, Julie M. THE CASE OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN: A STORY OF ADULTERY, MURDER AND THE MAKING OF A GREAT PRESIDENT. (New York: 2007).1st ed., 256p. In 1856, Abraham Lincoln was at a personal crossroads. Often despondent, he had grown bored with his work as a lawyer and was beginning to see himself as just a former Congressman without much of a future in politics. But the gruesome murder of a Springfield blacksmith would prove to be the case that defined Lincoln's legal career. The string of lurid revelations that followed the crime became front page news across the country, putting Lincoln back in the national spotlight. This case reflected the spirit of the times: an inescapable, dark world, hidden within the optimism and innocence of the young city of Springfield. With the Anderson murder, Lincoln's legal skills as a defender were challenged as never before, and he was finally able to prove himself as a man with a great destiny. Forgie, George B. PATRICIDE IN THE HOUSE DIVIDED: A PSYCHOLOGICAL INTERPRETATION OF LINCOLN AND HIS AGE. NY: W. W. Norton, 1979. 1st; 308p.; d.j. This insightful and essential book won the Allan Nevins Award of the Society of American Historians. Forgie argues that during the 1850s crisis of the union the dominant figures – none more than the central figure in the book, Abraham Lincoln – were basically influenced by the Founding Fathers. Lincoln understood that the Fathers' achievements ruled out immortality for their successors, unless they should be summoned to save the Fathers' institutions from patricidal destruction. An illuminating work that needs to be absorbed to understand Lincoln's psychological mindset. V.g. $50.00

Forrester, Izola. THIS ONE MAD ACT...THE UNKNOWN STORY OF JOHN WILKES BOOTH AND HIS FAMILY. Boston: 1937. 1st ed., 500p.; ft.; illus. [M2562] An intimate

Frassanito, William A. GRANT AND LEE: THE VIRGINIA CAMPAIGNS OF 1864-1865. New York: (1983).1st ed., 442p., illustrated, maps. Frassanito's previous studies of the photographic documentation of the battles at Gettysburg and Antietam Creek established him as the pre-eminent photographic historian of the Civil War. His books introduced students of the Civil War to the likes of Alexander Gardner and Timothy O'Sullivan. Frassanito's analysis of the Overland campaign is, perhaps, not as popular as his earlier books, but it is just as good. This work takes the reader from the Rapidan River to Petersburg, exploring the photographs taken by Gardner, O'Sullivan, and Brady & Company, but also introducing photographers such as T. C. Roche, and the U. S. Army's A. J. Russell. Not only did the photographers of the Overland campaign record battlefields and death scenes, but they took images of pontoon bridges, gunboats, generals and staffs, a military execution and rare ghostly images of Union soldiers on campaign and Confederate prisoners. Very good; dust jacket. $40.00

Girardi, Robert I., and Hughes, Nathaniel Cheairs, eds. THE MEMOIRS OF BRIGADIER GENERAL WILLIAM PASSMORE CARLIN, U.S.A. Lincoln & London: (1999).1st ed., 321p., illustrated. Illinois native and West Point graduate William P. Carlin served with distinction and was a successful and important brigade and division commander at Perryville, Stones River, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Resaca, Kennesaw Mountain, Atlanta, Bentonville, and other battles. To supplement the memoirs, the editors have provided two biographical essays and extensive annotation. Signed by Girardi; as new. $60.00

Glatthaar, Joseph T. GENERAL LEE'S ARMY: FROM VICTORY TO COLLAPSE. New York: Free Press, (2008). 2nd printing, paperback, 600p., illustrations. Following 14 years of assembling data on the Army of Northern Virginia, celebrated scholar Joseph T. Glatthaar offers a groundbreaking history that shows how close the South came to victory, and why it ultimately collapsed. Exploring how the entire Confederacy mobilized for war and supported its armies, and epic in scope and often startling in its research, this is a sweeping history and a scholarly tour de force. "The storied Army of Northern Virginia has never had a better chronicler than Joseph Glatthaar." --- James M. McPherson. "Here is the indispensable first place to go for anyone interested in Lee, his army, and their storied campaigns." --- Gary W. Gallagher. Signed; as new. $18.95

Gottfried, Bradley M. THE ARTILLERY OF GETTYSBURG. Nashville: (2008).1st ed., 332p., illustrations, maps. In this thoughtful look at the role of artillery during the turning point of the American Civil War, Bradley M. Gottfried provides insight into how the Army of the Potomac and the Army of Northern Virginia employed their artillery, the command structure and organization involved, how the different kinds of weapons functioned in battle, and the strategies for using them. He shows how artillery affected the ebb and flow of the fighting for both armies and, thus, provides a unique understanding of the strategies of the Federal and Confederate commanders. Signed; as new; dust jacket. $24.95

Hafendorfer, Kenneth A. MILL SPRINGS: CAMPAIGN AND BATTLE OF MILL SPRINGS, KENTUCKY. (Louisville: 2001).1st ed., 679p., illustrations, maps. This recent book, by the author of Perryville, is a comprehensive study of one of the most far-reaching but least understood events of the American Civil War. The Battle of Mill Springs, fought on January 19, 1862, was the first major military victory of the war for the Union, and, conversely, the first serious defeat of the Confederate States of America. It was an early triumph of Federal General George H. Thomas, and was one of the early disasters for the Confederacy, reflecting the crisis in leadership that was ultimately to plague the South in the Western Theater. Numerous maps and first-hand accounts help the reader to follow the narrative in detail and helps clear up a battle long shrouded in controversy and misunderstanding. Hagerty, Edward J. COLLIS' ZOUAVES: THE 114th PENNSYLVANIA VOLUNTEERS IN THE CIVIL WAR. Baton Rouge: (1997).1st ed., 357p., illustrations, maps. A splendid new group biography of the hard-fighting Philadelphia unit that saw action in all the major battles in the East from Fredericksburg to Petersburg. The regiment fought at the Peach Orchard, and Collis' wounded were among the casualties who burned to death in the Sherfy barn. "COLLIS' ZOUAVES is a gripping tale of men at war and a sharply etched portrait of their controversial and engaging commander, Charles H.T. Collis. The Pennsylvanians of the 114th come alive as we experience with them the brutality of combat, the exhaustion of bone-numbing marches, and the tedium of camp life. Hagerty spins the 114th's story in clear and compelling prose and critically explores the social and political forces that molded the outfit. He sustains a depth of analysis seldom found in regimental studies and sets a new and exacting standard against which future histories of Civil War regiments will certainly be judged." - Gordon C. Rhea. As new; dust jacket. $29.95

Hollandsworth, James G., Jr. THE LOUISIANA NATIVE GUARDS: THE BLACK MILITARY EXPERIENCE DURING THE CIVIL WAR. Baton Rouge: (1995).1st ed., 176p., illus., maps. Early in the Civil War, Louisiana's Confederate government sanctioned a militia unit of black troops in response to demands from members of New Orleans' free black population that they be permitted to participate in the defense of their state. These soldiers, the Louisiana Native Guards, were used for propaganda purposes and not permitted to fight. After the fall of New Orleans, Benjamin F. Butler brought the Native Guards into Federal military service, but it was not until May, 1863, that the Native Guards had their first large-scale deployment. This remarkable work presents a vivid picture of men eager to prove their courage and ability to a world determined to exploit and demean them. As new; dust jacket; signed. $50.00

Holzer, Harold & Neely, Mark E., Jr. MINE EYES HAVE SEEN THE GLORY: THE CIVIL WAR IN ART. New York: Orion Books, 1993.1st ed., 336p., frontispiece, illustrations, 11 1/4" x 9 1/4". Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Mark E. Neely and Harold Holzer, the nation's leading expert on Civil War images, teamed up to produce this stunning and definitive look at the best and most important artworks from the Civil War. The book not only presents the great works of art by great artists like Winslow Homer, Albert Bierstadt, and even Eduard Manet, but re-introduces forgotten painters whose art illustrated the war for generations of Americans. Here is a unique and astonishing examination of how America saw itself – heroic ideal versus harsh reality – both during and after the long, bloody struggle. Hubbard, Charles M, editor. LINCOLN, THE LAW AND PRESIDENTIAL LEADERSHIP. Carbondale: Southern Illinois University Press, 2015.1st ed., 214p. From his early years as a small-town lawyer through his rise to the presidency, Abraham Lincoln respected the rule of law. Secession and the Civil War, however, led him to expand presidential power in ways that, over time, transformed American society. In this incisive essay collection, recognized scholars from a variety of academic disciplines – including history, political science, legal studies and journalism – explore Lincoln’s actions as president and identify within his decision-making process the commitment to law and the principles of the Constitution. Contributing scholars include Hubbard, Mark Steiner, Frank Williams, Edna Greene Medford, Burrus M. Carnahan, and others. As new; in dust jacket. $34.50

Lincoln, Abraham. DISCOVERIES AND INVENTIONS: A LECTURE BY ABRAHAM LINCOLN, DELIVERED IN 1860. San Francisco: John Howell, 1915. Ltd. ed., 1000 copies on drawing paper. [M-2193] New inventions always claimed Lincoln’s imagination; indeed, he is the only president to himself hold a patent. During the war, he pushed promising innovations, such as balloon reconnaissance, and even occasionally tested new rifles at the Old Arsenal Building at present day Ft. McNair. Here, Lincoln explains his notions of human progress. This is his revised lecture from the original of 1858. A useful prefatory note by John Howell included. Very good; quite scarce in its slipcase w/ spine label and quite uncommon due to its delicate nature; spine sunned as is usual. $225.00

Yet he was also a complex figure, a paradoxical blend of idealism and ambition. $75.00

Nye, Wilbur Sturtevant. HERE COME THE REBELS! Baton Rouge: Louisiana State University Press, (1965).1st ed., 412p., maps. The story of Lee's invasion of Pennsylvania in 1863, with emphasis on Ewell's Corps. Valuable in-depth looks at battles such as Winchester and Aldie contribute to the history of the campaign. The decisions of Union General Darius Couch in defending Harrisburg also receive the necessary examination usually absent from books that focus on the great battle. Excellent maps of the various movements. Very good; lightly chipped dust jacket. $45.00

Paradis, James M. STRIKE THE BLOW FOR FREEDOM: THE 6TH UNITED STATES COLORED INFANTRY IN THE CIVIL WAR. (Shippensburg: 1998).1st ed., 203p., ft., illus., maps. This regiment saw action at Petersburg and Ft. Fisher, but their greatest ordeal and demonstration of courage came during the Battle of New Market Heights, where three of their number earned the Congressional Medal of Honor. "The Civil War regimental history is an ideal means of linking together the experiences of the ordinary soldier and the decisions of higher levels of command. James Paradis has done that job right with his history of the 6th U.S.C.A., and he has put the story fully into the context of African American history as well." - Russell F. Weigley. Includes informative and detailed statistical tables and graphs, and a muster roll. As new; dust jacket. $29.95

Patterson, Robert. A NARRATIVE OF THE CAMPAIGN IN THE VALLEY OF THE SHENANDOAH, IN 1861. Philadelphia: 1865. "Large Paper" edition of 100 copies, 128p., map. Robert Patterson's failure to detain Joseph Johnston in the Shenandoah Valley played a major role in the Union defeat at 1st Bull Run. Although this apologia for his performance has been called "unconvincing," Gen. Patterson's explication is a valuable addition to history. The Large Paper Edition is hard to find, and this copy has been beautifully rebound in brown cloth with leather spine label; excellent condition and handsome! $150.00

Pendel, Thomas F. [1824 – 1909; White House Door-Keeper] THIRTY-SIX YEARS IN THE WHITE HOUSE: LINCOLN – ROOSEVELT. Washington: Neale Publishing Co., st 1902. 1 .; 176p.; illustrated with presidential portraits. Pendel served ten presidents and had experienced the assassinations of Lincoln, Garfield, and McKinley -- even assisting the apprehension of a man with a gun perhaps after Chester Arthur. Filled with numerous anecdotes and insights into the personalities of those living and working in the White House. The front board is illustrated with the signatures of each of the presidents he served. Quite scarce! Very good; small dent to bottom of spine; ft. hng. Weak; previous owner's bookplate. $475.00

Perret, Geoffrey. LINCOLN'S WAR: THE UNTOLD STORY OF AMERICA'S GREATEST PRESIDENT AS COMMANDER IN CHIEF. NY: Random, House, (2004).1st ed., 470p., illustrations. The celebrated biographer of U. S. Grant turns his analysis to Abraham Lincoln and his work as commander-in-chief. The reader sees the war unfold as Lincoln saw it. The far-ranging account casts new light on Lincoln and his generals, his admirals, his controversial Secretary of War, Edwin Stanton, and his outspoken confidant Gideon Welles. It was Lincoln who created the role of Commander-in-chief as we understand it today, and he did it on the fly. Perret's work helps us understand that. As new; dust jacket $35.00

Peterson, Merrill D. LINCOLN IN AMERICAN MEMORY. NY: Oxford U. Press, 1994. 1 .; 482p.; d.j. Pfanz, Harry W. GETTYSBURG - THE FIRST DAY. Chapel Hill: (2001).1st ed., 528p. (approx.), illustrations, maps. Harry Pfanz, the former historian at Gettysburg National Military Park and author of two classic books on the battle, presents a deeply researched, definitive account of the events of July 1, 1863. After sketching the background of the Gettysburg campaign and recounting the events immediately preceding the battle, Pfanz offers a detailed tactical description of the first day's fighting. He describes the engagements in the McPherson Woods, at the Railroad Cuts, on Oak Ridge, on Seminary Ridge, and at Blocher's Knoll, as well as the retreat of Union forces through Gettysburg and the Federal rally on Cemetery Hill. He draws on deep research in published and archival sources to challenge some of the common assumptions about the battle - for example, that Richard Ewell's failure to press an attack at Cemetery Hill late on the first day ultimately cost the Confederacy the battle. Very good; dust jacket. $35.00

Pfanz, Harry W. GETTYSBURG: CULP'S HILL AND CEMETERY HILL. Chapel Hill: 1993.1st ed., illustrations, maps. A worthy follow up to Pfanz's classic Gettysburg – The Second Day. The comprehensive history of the second day at Gettysburg is completed with detailed accounts of the fighting on Cemetery Hill and Culp's Hill, including the fighting on the morning of July 3. Appendices on Spanger's Spring and Culp's Hill controversies round out an unmatched military analysis. Near fine; dust jacket. $50.00

Pillsbury, Albert E. LINCOLN AND SLAVERY. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin, 1913.1st ed., 96p., (Monaghan 2101). Lincoln's attitude proved by his actions and words. Revised from a Lincoln centennial address made at Howard University in 1909. Pillsbury draws Lincoln as a complex character and insists that this complexity be recognized in the evaluation of his actions regarding slavery. Ultimately, Pillsbury finds Lincoln a genius of abolition, inspired by God. Rough cut pages with deckled edges. Light shelf wear; else near fine. Bright boards with bright gilt. $45.00

Piston, William Garrett, and Sweeney, Thomas P. PORTRAITS OF CONFLICT: A PHOTOGRAPHIC HISTORY OF MISSOURI IN THE CIVIL WAR. Fayetteville: 2009.1st ed., 347p., illus. As a retired physician and respected collector of artifacts, Sweeney adds his medical expertise to the mix in a chapter devoted solely to medical practices during the War in this border state. The agony of Missourians in dealing with tested loyalty come out in this volume in the series. Justly so, attention is directed at the guerilla war in the state, as such key figures (William Quantrill, "Bloody Bill" Anderson, and Jesse James) rise to prominence. As new; dust jacket. $65.00

Pride, Mike, and Travis, Mike. MY BRAVE BOYS: TO WAR WITH COLONEL CROSS AND THE FIGHTING FIFTH. Hanover: (2001).1st ed., 323p., illustrations, maps. Two thousand regiments fought in Union armies during the Civil War. None suffered more deaths in battle than the Fifth New Hampshire Volunteers. At the center of this regiment's searing experience is Colonel Edward Cross, a journalist and adventurer who infused the Fifth with his formidable personality. The two authors spent eight years digging for the story of Cross and his men in letters, diaries, memoirs, official records, and newspaper accounts. The result is a military history unfolded in human terms, as the men themselves experienced it. Cross's story ends in the Wheatfield at Gettysburg as his regiment is decimated in the intense fighting. "No Union regiment is more deserving of a freshly researched history than the Fifth New Hampshire. In My Brave Boys the 'Fighting Fifth' and its remarkable colonel, Edward E. Cross, finally get their due." - Stephen W. Sears. "My Brave Boys is a superb regimental history. It tells the important story of the Fifth

New Hampshire, a story that closely parallels that of the First Minnesota, and it does so wonderfully well. I highly recommend it." - Richard Moe. As new; dust jacket. $40.00

Prowell, George R. ENCOUNTER AT HANOVER: PRELUDE TO GETTYSBURG. Shippensburg: 1985. 2nd edition, 274p., illustrations, maps. A handsome reprint of the fine 1962 history of the Battle of Hanover, June 30, 1863. Rich in local detail and a good history of Stuart's Cavalry in action on the way to Gettysburg. Excellent; in dust jacket. $25.00

Pula, James S. THE SIGEL REGIMENT: A HISTORY OF THE TWENTY-SIXTH WISCONSIN VOLUNTEER INFANTRY, 1862-1865. Campbell, CA: Savas Beatie, (1998).1st ed., 485p., illustrations, maps. The 26th Wisconsin was mustered into service in Milwaukee on September 17, 1862, the bloodiest day in American history. Composed primarily of German immigrants and Badgers of German descent, the 26th fought its way into the record books as one of Fox's "Fighting 300" regiments. Part of XI Corps, the 26th's service spanned three years, having their battlefield debut at Chancellorsville. They then saw action at Gettysburg, Chattanooga, Knoxville, the Atlanta Campaign, the March to the Sea, the Carolinas and at Bentonville. This, the first history of this unit written in English, contains informative appendices, including the roster and biographical sketches. Near fine; very good dust jacket; scarce, and signed by the author. $75.00

Rhea, Gordon C.; photographs by Heisey, Chris E. IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF GRANT AND LEE: THE WILDERNESS THROUGH COLD HARBOR. Baton Rouge: (2007).1st ed., 134p., illustrations, maps. A blend of narrative and photographic journalism from Gordon C. Rhea (the foremost authority on the Overland Campaign) and Chris E. Heisey (a leading photographer of Civil War battlefields) which provides a stunning, stirring account of this deadly game between the war's foremost commanders. "This beautifully produced book brings together a narrative by the best historian of the Overland campaign and splendid contemporary photographs of the ground where Grant's and Lee's armies marched and fought." - - Gary W. Gallagher. "The Rhea-Heisey combination brings together two of the leading practitioners in their respective fields to emphasize the significance of that historic ground in central Virginia. Their crisp prose and matchless photography chronicle one of the war's landmark campaigns. The crowded field of Civil War publishing could use more volumes like this one." --- Robert K. Krick. "This is a unique and an inspiring book." --- James I. Robertson, Jr. Signed by Rhea on bookplate; as new; dust jacket. $39.95

Schildt, John W. ROADS FROM GETTYSBURG. N.p.: 1979. 174p., illustrations, maps. Companion work to Roads to Gettysburg covers the return of both armies to the Potomac July 4-14, with both soldier and civilian perspectives. Schildt writes both books with an appreciation of infrastructure and movement. We encounter those who watched the armies come and go. Very good; dust jacket; signed by author. $75.00

Schildt, John W. ROADS TO GETTYSBURG. West Virginia: 1978.1st ed., 582p., maps, illustrations. An account of the prelude to Gettysburg, treating the movements of both armies. See Roads From Gettysburg. These books are essential companions. Very good; dust jacket. $85.00

Schneller, Robert John, Jr. A QUEST FOR GLORY: A BIOGRAPHY OF REAR ADMIRAL JOHN A. DAHLGREN. Annapolis: Naval Institute Press, 1996.1st ed., 432p., illustrations, maps. Ambition fueled John A. Dahlgren's controversial rise to eminence during the Civil War era. While he ranks with the foremost contributors to the American naval tradition and is known as the "father of American naval ordnance", personal conflicts and the lack of major victories at sea nearly obscured his historic legacy. This rich, balanced portrait examines in exhaustive detail Dahlgren's quixotic, frustrating quest for glory and power. Drawing on Dahlgren's meticulously kept diaries and records and recently unearthed family papers, Schneller describes the admiral's many technical triumphs as well as the plots, duels, intrigue and betrayal that plagued Dahlgren's life. This assiduously-researched work fills a vast hole in the literature of American naval history and provides a rare look inside the tormented psyche of a great man. Very good; dust jacket. $39.95

Severance, Ben H., A PHOTOGRAPHIC HISTORY OF ALABAMA IN THE CIVIL WAR. Fayetteville: 2012.1st ed., 387p., illus., While the state itself did not witness a lot of fighting, Alabamians, to the tune of over 100,000, fought in Confederate units during the course of the War throughout the South. It may surprise some to know that soldiers from Alabama regiments fought in the battles at Sharpsburg, Chickamauga, Chancellorsville, and at the siege of Vicksburg. One entry in a diary of a Tuscaloosa soldier, after the twin disasters at Vicksburg and Gettysburg, reads: "the confederacy totters to its destruction." As new; dust jacket. $65.00

Simpson, Brooks D. ULYSSES S. GRANT: TRIUMPH OVER ADVERSITY, 1822-1865. Boston: (1999).1st ed., 544p. Washington, Lincoln, Grant - these were once the triumvirate of American nationalism. But, like his tomb on the Hudson, Grant's reputation had once fallen into disrepair, and the image most Americans held of him is a caricature of an insensitive butcher as a general, an incompetent bumbler as president and a drunk. Brooks Simpson is neither an apologist nor a critic, but is convinced that this portrait of Grant "was not a man whom Grant's contemporaries would find recognizable." Grant was not only a great general, but he wrote one of the greatest memoirs in military history. As General Sherman said, he was a mystery to everyone, including himself. Grant was a tangle of opposing qualities - a relentless warrior but a generous victor...a genius who utilized uncommon common sense. He was also one of the only Civil War generals who came to understand that the conflict was not just over preserving the Union, but over destroying slavery as well. As new; dust jacket. A very handsome copy! $45.00

Simpson, Harold B., HOOD'S TEXAS BRIGADE: 4 VOLUME SET. Fort Worth: 1999. 2nd printing, 4 volumes, illustrated, in slip case. Nobody knew more about, or conducted more research on Hood's Texas Brigade than Colonel Harold B. Simpson. This handsome reprint of his life work includes:

A COMPENDIUM. 614p. Thorough listing of all (known) members of the Brigade's 7,268 members in the 72 separate companies. Illustrated with photos, many of which prior to the 1st printing of this work (1977) had not before been published.

IN POETRY AND SONG. 296p. The folklore of the Brigade, replete with contemporary songs unique to Hood's men. Appendix contains little-known anecdotes and stories involving the emergent culture of Hood's Brigade, clearly strongly "pro-Confederate."

LEE'S GRENADIER GUARD. 512p. Perhaps the major image most historians conjure up with respect to "The Gallant Hood," is that to Lee, Hood's role was nearly indispensable. His brigade were the "shock troops." They were often the first to advance, and the last to retreat from battle. In the end, at Appomattox, only 473 of the estimated 4,000 in Hood's three regiments were left to surrender. A compelling and dramatic re-telling of the bravery of these Texans who fought in some of the most significant—and costly—battles of the War; specifically, Chickamauga, Antietam, and Gettysburg.

IN REUNION AND MEMORY. 369p. A logical place for the story of the Brigade to terminate. As with many wanting to reminisce and meet old acquaintances, Hood's men hung in there and formed associations and reunions for the surviving. Quite an active organization, these events were held at multiple locations across the state of Texas well into the twentieth century. Various memoranda and letters are included in this accounting. Priced as a set. Light edgewear of dust jackets; slip case beginning to split; else near fine. $175.00

Smith, Donald. THE TWENTY-FOURTH MICHIGAN OF THE IRON BRIGADE. Harrisburg: Stackpole, (1962).1st ed., 312p., illustrations, maps. A hard-to- find volume for any Black Hat collection. This Detroit regiment responded to Lincoln's second call and became one of the finest units in the Army of the Potomac. As part of the Iron Brigade the 24th suffered 80% casualties on the first day of Gettysburg. Near fine; near fine dust jacket. An uncommonly nice copy! $50.00

Starr, John W., Jr. LINCOLN'S LAST DAY. New York: 1922. 1st ed., 100p., ft., illus. [M2604] A fine account of Lincoln's activities on the day of the assassination, with an excellent bibliography. Very good; lt. sun spine; stain inside boards/flyleaves. $100.00

Stribling, Robert M. GETTYSBURG CAMPAIGN AND CAMPAIGNS OF 1864 AND 1865 IN VIRGINIA. Petersburg: 1905.1st ed., 308p. Well-organized. A good primary source by a Confederate artillery officer. Scarce, and too often overlooked (Stribling was a companion to E.P. Alexander). Rubbed & bumped; weak front hinge; lightly frayed; gouged & mottled on boards, but still bright; else good. $75.00

Swanson, James L. MANHUNT: THE TWELVE-DAY CHASE FOR LINCOLN'S KILLER. (New York: 2006). 1st ed., 448p., illus., illus., maps. Signed. Based on rare archival materials, obscure trial transcripts, and Lincoln's own blood relics, this full documented work is a fascinating tale of murder and intrigue. "His beautifully crafted narrative commands the reader's interest from start to finish ---and, most important, he gets it right, down to the smallest detail." --

- Ed Steers, Jr. Excellent; illustrated boards with original wrapper. $75.00

Symonds, Craig L. AMERICAN HERITAGE HISTORY OF THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG. (New York: 2001).1st ed., 320p., illustrations, maps. Beginning with Chancellorsville, which set the stage for Robert E. Lee's second invasion of the North, and concluding with Lee's escape across the Potomac, Craig L. Symonds' brilliant new narrative details the pivotal campaign when two armies struggled in a virtual death grip across a dozen square miles of rolling Pennsylvania countryside. Symonds encapsulates the grand sweep of strategy of both sides and draws upon a wealth of letters, diaries, and memoirs of those who were on the front lines. Richly illustrated with nearly 300 photographs, color paintings, and illustrations accompanying the text, this is the story of Gettysburg as it has never been told before. "Even those who know much about Gettysburg will be unable to put this book down; newcomers will become hooked on the Civil War. Both the lucid narrative and superb illustrations are unmatched in drama and richness." - James M. McPherson. As new; dust jacket; signed. $65.00

Thomas, Benjamin P. LINCOLN'S NEW SALEM. Chicago: Lincoln's New Salem Enterprises, Inc., 1966. 2nd edition (1st Borzoi edition), revised and expanded, illustrations, (Monaghan 3456 variant). Drawings by Romaine Proctor. New introduction by Ralph G. Newman. The story of New Salem, revised from the original, reset, and printed from new plates. Aside from its connection to Abraham Lincoln, New Salem is important as an example of a typical pioneer village. There were hundreds like it. Some survived; others died as it did. It is one of the few whose founding, growth, and decline can be minutely traced. The story of the restoration of the town is here given in full detail. Paul Angle called the book "a little gem of Lincoln literature."

Inscribed and signed by the author to noted Lincoln collector Louis H. Max. Very good; dust jacket chipped and faded. $75.00

Thompson, B. F. HISTORY OF THE 112TH REGIMENT OF ILLINOIS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY IN THE GREAT WAR OF THE REBELLION, 1862-1865. Toulon, IL: 1885.1st ed., 480p. 3/4 leather, (Dornbusch-333). Retrospective narrative of this XXIII Corps regiment from being “ordered to the front” until mustering out in 1865. Contains a candid description of life in a confederate prison from a George W. Nicholas of the regiment. Considerable attention to the regiment’s involvements in the Atlanta campaign and in the battles in Tennessee at Franklin and Nashville. Cracked front hinge; Fading at edges. Tear in upper spine; chipped extremities; scuffed but vibrantly marbled boards. $395.00

Trudeau, Noah Andre. BLOODY ROADS SOUTH: THE WILDERNESS TO COLD HARBOR MAY-JUNE 1864. Boston: Little, Brown and Company, 1989.1st ed., 354p., illustrations, maps. One of the great chroniclers of the war in the east, Noah Andrew Trudeau began his Civil War writing career looking at the great battles between U. S. Grant and Robert E. Lee during May and June of 1864. This is a riveting story that places the reader behind the lines in the campaign that marked the beginning of the end of the war, the final act of the confederacy. The human stories in the epic saga are thrilling and compelling. Soldiers on both sides and of every rank struggled to find words to describe the experience of this campaign. Bloody Roads south is at once a wrenching account of the brutality of one of the most fascinating chapters of the War and a testament to the men who fought it. Signed on bookplate. From the eminent biographer of Stonewall Jackson. Vandiver brought new life to the bitter battles, clashing personalities and defiant struggles of the last offensive action of the Confederacy in the east. Battles at Lynchburg, Monocacy and Fort Stevens are vividly narrated. Very good with chipped and torn dust jacket. $50.00

Ward, George W. HISTORY OF THE SECOND PENNSYLVANIA VETERAN HEAVY ARTILLERY, (112th REGIMENT PENNSYLVANIA VOLUNTEERS) FROM 1861 TO 1866, INCLUDING THE PROVISIONAL SECOND PENN’A HEAVY ARTILLERY.

Philadelphia: 1904. Revised and best edition, 311p., frontispiece, illustrated, roster, all edges gilt (Dornbusch-11). The Survivor's Association of this regiment of "heavies" produced this handsome volume to dedicate their service at Washington, and most significantly, before Petersburg. The many original illustrations and remembrances make this a particularly useful account of Petersburg. Recased with original boards and new spine; new end pages; else very good. Wert, Jeffry D. FROM WINCHESTER TO CEDAR CREEK: THE SHENANDOAH CAMPAIGN OF 1864. Carlisle: South Mountain Press, 1987.1st ed., 324p., illustrations, maps. An excellent analysis of the duel between Jubal "Old Jube" Early and "Little Phil" Sheridan. Wert's campaign-level study places battles such as Third Winchester, Fisher's Hill, and Cedar Creek in perspective, and helps the reader understand the political ramifications of Sheridan's operations in the Shenandoah Valley. This work is uncommon in first edition! Very good condition; in dust jacket. $40.00

Wert, Jeffry D. GETTYSBURG, DAY THREE. (New York: 2001).1st ed., 320p., illustrations, maps. The Battle of Gettysburg has been the subject of more scholarship than any other battle in American history, but it has been decades since a book focused solely on the third and deciding day. Drawing on primary material written by men on both sides who participated in the day's fighting, acclaimed Civil War historian Jeffry Wert illuminates the events that secured the Union victory. The third day of the battle is remembered principally for Pickett's Charge, the futile, horrific, sacrifice of life that Robert E. Lee hoped would break the Union line and split the Army of the Potomac in two. Wert offers his analysis of why Lee attacked, examining the failure of the Confederate command system, and explains how Union artillery destroyed the charge before it had a chance at success. He also examines often-neglected events of the day, such as the fierce combat at Culp's Hill, the most prolonged fighting of the battle, and the cavalry engagement between Jeb Stuart and George Custer. [West Virginia / Vicksburg] Barton, Thomas H., Dr., AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF DR. THOMAS H. BARTON, THE SELF-MADE PHYSICIAN OF SYRACUSE, OHIO. Charleston, 1890. 340p.,1st ed., octavo, (Dornbusch-II-1520). Perchance belying its title, Barton self-assertively claims to be writing of himself, not as a noted Civil War general, philosopher, or statesman, but as a "common and ordinary (man), failing to "reach the summit of fame." His war service does include time as a physician in the 4th West Virginia, and as such, the book abounds with descriptions of early-war fighting in West Virginia, and at Vicksburg and Chattanooga. The role of the army doctor is explored. That aside, the autobiography concentrates on the medical career of Dr. Barton, and investigates the changing nature of post-war medical practice and challenges. A supplement includes questions of ethics, medical claims, and cautions to the patient. Scarce. Light sunning of spine; light chipping of extremities; minor cover wear. A near fine copy and desirable. $225.00

Written by a "non-vet of Company H." Silver anniversary inspired narrative of the "Old Eagle Eighth." An amplification of the regiment's history begun in 1864 by a Sgt. Major George W. Driggs, who then published a history of the regiment's first two years. Written in a singular, long narrative format. Details the "Eagle's" role in the siege of Vicksburg. Brief biographical sketches of members of the regiment, rosters, recapitulations, desertions, and casualties. Split & cracked hinge; lightly chipped extremities; else very good & bright! $450.00

Wills, Garry. LINCOLN AT GETTYSBURG: THE WORDS THAT REMADE AMERICA. NY: Simon & Schuster, (1992). 1st ed., 317p., illus.; d.j. Signed ALBS bookplate. Ronald White (above) has refocused the public eye on the magic of Lincoln's rhetoric. This Pulitzer Prize-winning account of the making of Lincoln's masterpiece reminds us how daring was this act of intellectual revolution. Rather than just memorialize the grisly battle, Lincoln gave the whole nation "a new birth of freedom". Excellent. $50.00

Wilson, Francis. JOHN WILKES BOOTH: FACT AND FICTION OF LINCOLN'S ASSASSINATION. Boston: Houghton, Mifflin, 1929. 1st. ed.; 322p., ft., illus., ports., t.e.g., front board and spine labels attached. [M3155] Wilson, an actor, producer, and writer, here examines the reality and myths of Booth and the assassination. He uses important documents, including Booth's diary and letters and the War Department archives, in this engaging and classic biography. "My aim has been not to excuse Booth, but to explain him." Introductory statement by Joseph Bradley, Counsel for the Defense in the John H. Surratt Trial. Excellent; the rare, illustrated dust jacket is present in very good condition. A collector's copy. $250.00

Wittenberg, Eric J. "THE DEVIL'S TO PAY" JOHN BUFORD AT GETTYSBURG: A HISTORY AND WALKING TOUR. California: Savas Beatie, (2015). 3rd printing, 272p., illustrations, maps. Eric Wittenberg gives us an important analysis of the delaying actions made by the troopers of this celebrated brigade on the first day at Gettysburg. Wittenberg provides a comprehensive tactical study of the role Buford and his horse soldiers played from June 29 through July 2, 1863. The book includes useful appendices, 17 maps, and a walking tour of interpretive markers and monuments on the Gettysburg battlefield. A fine companion for the battlefield tramper. Very good; dust jacket. $32.95
